BERIES OF PAGEANTS.

Ten Sunday Evenings at Congregational Church Devoted to Life of St Paul and His Friends.

concert Sunday evening closed one of the most interesting series of ever given in the Ekonk These services began Jan. 24th and continued for ten successive Sunday nights. They were given un-der the form of pageants on the theme Paul and His Friends. Each night a vested choir, singing a proces-sional hymn, preceded by the pastor, encircled the church, followed by the participants in the literary pro-gramme in the proper costume of the time, representing the cities and the friends of St. Paul and St. Paul himself. Jerusalem, where the first men-tion of St. Paul is made, was represented by Miss Margaret Tanner as the spirit of Jerusalem. She recited ory of that city, to the coming, arrest Christ, the martyrdom of Stephen and the introduction of St. Paul as the young man who held the clothes of England is more typically country than this parish, extending from Moothese who stoned Stephen.

Fourth Scene—Represented the introduction of the gospel into Europe, and Mrs. Edward Gallup as the spirit of Philippi recites the history of that city, to the coming of St. Paul, Silas, Timothy and Luke. Lydia, the business woman from Thyatira, the seller of purple, the first convert in Europe. ness woman from Thyatira, the seller of purple, the first convert in Europe, tells of the coming of the missionaries, the story of the Christ's coming, crucifixion, death and resurrection, and her own conversion. St. Luke is introduced and relates the experiences of the apostie and his companion Silas in the city.

Fifth Scene—This was laid in Thessalonica, and Miss Gladys Gallup as the spirit of that city touches upon the salient points in the life of that city. Here Paul preaches a masterly sermon and is driven out by the Jews to find more worthy men in Berea.

Sixth Scene—This is in Corinth, and Miss Julia Sayles as the spirit of Corinth recited its history, dwelling upon its religion and schools of philosophy. St. Paul, who had come from a cool reception in Athens, greets his friends Silas and Timothy, who came on to meet him from Berea, and introduces them to Aquila and Priscilla. Luke writes to his friend Theophilus from Corinth describing the greatness of the work and the serious paed of the hour.

Seventh Scene—Miss Lilian Cooper as the spirit of Ephesus describes that city, its great temple of drama, the coming of St. Paul and his friends.

Timothy sketches his own life and pauling sketches his own life sketch Paul's missionary journey. Demetrius stirs up the Ephesian mob and Paul leaves the city.

Eighth Scene-The spirit of Caesarea ner. She describes the city, the pal-ace of Herod the great, the ampitheatre, the gay company constantly go-ing and coming, the court of the Judean proconsul to the coming in chains

Howard Gallup, Bernice, with Florence Gallup and Lena Sayles as attendants in waiting; Elmer Frink, Lloyd Frink, Lloyd Congdon and Hen-Congdon, soldiers in attendance on the king. St. Paul brought in in chains, makes his defense before Agrippa and Festus and attendants.

Ninth Scene—Mrs. Carl Gallup as the spirit of Rome set forth the history of that city, its founding, great kings, and the special event in their reigns. The character of Julius Caesar and the character of Nero in contrast to Paul, the persecution of the church under Nero and the mar-tyrdom of St. Paul. who was introduced to plead through his advocate, the Rev. W. J. Reynolds, to the charge of sedition and treason. His advocate set forth his life from the advocate set forth his life from the first and secured his acquittal before Nero. Miss Esther Gallup then read The Death of a Martyr as written by Croly in Tarry Thou Till I Come.

Tenth Scene—This brought together the nine spirits of the cities represented, to recite in brief the events that befell them in the first one hundred years from the birth of Christ, the progress of his church and kingdom. They in turn laid at the foot of the progress of his church and king-dom. They in turn laid at the foot of the cross their crowns in the hope of the resurrection to the life immortal

All in all, the work was most satisfactorily done. The pageant was written and conducted throughout by the pastor, Rev. William J. Reynolds, who has every reason to be proud of his people for the splendid support they gave him in every particular, his wishes being acceded to in everything Easter Came, Ruth Moore; Easter and his most sanguine expectations being met. The community was much shocked last week by the death of Henry Williams at Canterbury Plain, especially as at the time of his death both his wife and his son were in much danger from the same disease, pneumonia, Mr. Williams was much beloved. For years it had been his pleasure to give his duties as janitor without pay to the Methodist church, of which he was a member. The Sunday speaks through Miss Gladys Gallup, his death tribute to his faithfulness who substituted for Miss Minda Tanner. She describes the city, the palson Clifford and four daughters, Mrs. Bernice Bliven, Mrs. Fannie Stanton, Mrs. Harry Dean of Central Village and Mrs. Buell Porter of Hebron.
